“ Deb and I just seemed to click the first day we met. We had a lot of the same likes and dislikes. When we discovered we both loved playing Yahtzee it was game on. Coffee, muffins and two or three games of Yahtzee and lots of non-stop talking. We were never at a loss for words. We went from serious conversations to just plain silly. I still find myself thinking of something that I want to remember to tell Deb. And then the sad reality hits me. I miss her so much. it's like suddenly there is this void in my life.

She always said if something happened to her she wanted me to take Gidget her sweet little dog. She would always tell Gidget that I was coming on the days I visited and Gidget would be waiting at the door for me. So now Gidget is my shadow every step I take Gidget is right behind me. I might just be getting up to get a cup of coffee, but Gidget insists on following me. Deb, we are taking good of Gidget. She has become part of our family. Thanks for being a good friend! Miss you.

“ Deb was always friendly to be around; she was always laughing and in a good mood! She was always good to me, and would laugh at my jokes. You'll be missed, Deb!

“ I first met Deb when Gail had her brain tumor removed. She stayed at the hospital all day waiting for news with us and was so relieved when we got word she was ok. I then would run into her at birthday parties, baptisms, and other family events. She was a kind woman who would go out of her way to help. I remember when Brady was born, she was thrilled and kept saying how much he looked like Trent. Then when Addie came, she was so excited that “we got us a girl”! She adored her grandkids.

She was alway kind to me and it was so obvious that she adored her family. She will be missed.
