Tomorrow will be a hard day but I know you will bring us peace and comfort from above. Love you, forever my little girl. Love, mommy*

“ To my beautiful girl,
Happy birthday to our angel who turns nine in just a few moments. I look back on the day you were born and remember what a joyful day that was with the most gorgeous sunrise to start a new day. You are missed everyday, but today our hearts ache even more. Sending hugs to heaven isn't the same as holding my baby on her day but it will have to do. I love you and always looked forward to waking you on your birthday to celebrate your beautiful life. Happy birthday sweet girl, eat lots of cake in heaven, we will have a piece for you down here. Love forever, mommy.

“ You brought so much joy to our lives and made us ALL better people for knowing you. I know you are looking down from heaven and can hear that belly laugh...how we all miss that so much. Whenever there was calamity, you brought down the house with your laughter. I know you are okay, but we all miss you so much. The house is so quiet without you. You will live forever with the great memories you have given us. You really are an angel. I love you my sweet sweet girl. Will miss you forever and look forward to the day we meet again. Have fun eating pizza and ice cream, running and talking. A beautiful girl with a beautiful spirit. I love you Hannah Doodle.

“Hannah what can I say. I love you, and you are everything to me. Staying up all night with you listening to you say ga, ga and hanging out with inga! We cuddled, and watched TV. I would put you in your lycra swing, cover you up with your lycra blanket and weighted blanket. I loved waking you up gently, slowly opening your shade. Carrying you out and laying you down. Getting you ready brushing your teeth and hair. Stretching and exercising you. Climbing, the stairs playing on the trampoline and ball pit. Walking you around in your pacer. Getting you ready for bed, playing the switch, listening to your head phones. Singing twinkle twinkle little star, and mr sun. Enjoying massages and music therapy. Taking bike rides, going horse back riding, swimming, tubing, going to the beach, and sledding. I loved our trips to san diego, Colorado and great lakes. We had so much fun. I enjoyed your company, your contagious laugh, your smile you eyes but nothing could compare to your scratching my back when you were content playing kitty kitty I am truly lost without you. I can't wait to see you in heaven.

“ My beautiful girl, I am so blessed that you were given to us for the eight years we had. I loved being your mommy. You taught me so much. I never envisioned having a child with so many hurdles to overcome and I am so honored and fortunate to have been a special needs mommy. You shaped me into a person I couldn't have been without you. What a beautiful soul you have. Everyone you met fell in love with you and your contagious laugh. And that smile, that beautiful smile. You are strong and brave. You faced challenges with a better attitude than most of us have on our best days. There were so many things I enjoyed doing with you. We spent a lot of time in the car traveling to appointments and I loved every minute of it. I was always so proud of you. I loved watching you achieve goals and how proud you were when you did it. Even when it was tough, you always fought with everything you had, right to the end. I loved cuddling with you and hearing you ga ga and inga, how I loved inga. I loved when you touched me and would play kitty kitty. You would rock and we would sing row your boat, I loved that too. I enjoyed getting you ready for school each day and braiding your hair, I know you loved that too. I will miss going to the farm each week and watching you ride, it gave me such joy to see you smile and laugh with the weight of the world off your shoulders. It was always so touching during music therapy when your eyes would brighten and you sang your favorite songs like mr. sun and twinkle twinkle little star. I cannot believe you are in heaven. Our time seemed short but we sure packed in all the adventures we could. We always wanted you to do everything, with no limitations. You are in our hearts forever. The house is empty without you and even though our hearts ache, they overflow with the joy you gave us. I cannot sum up all the laughter you brought us in such a short speech and all the gifts you have. You know we love you. You were always an angel, and now you have your wings. Thank you for bringing us such joy. For such a little girl you had the biggest heart. Look around at all the lives you touched. Life will never be the same without you but we will meet again soon. I love you Hannah Doodle. Go enjoy some ice cream (I owed you a lot), run as fast as you can and talk to all your friends that were waiting for you. There are no hurdles now.

“ I had the privilege of working with Hannah in her classroom at Haisley Elementary. I have many treasured memories of her, including, but not limited to the following: my first hug from her, watching her fully open her hands to enjoy the sand on a metal tray, feeling her open hand on mine for several minutes at a time, and holding a tambourine while she independently hit it 38 times. One warm spring day last year, I was asked to take Hannah outside to get some fresh air. As soon as we got out there, it began to sprinkle. I was moderately annoyed, and expected Hannah to be even more so, but instead, she began to smile, laugh, and enjoy herself in general. It was contagious.

With love to all the family, Mary Score
