“ I have fond memories of Joel & I growing up together. Great memories, in fact. If you didn't know Joel, he was the type of guy who would give you the shirt off his back. He loved collecting things too. I'm not sure it was the things he liked, but "the hunt". Oh yes, and finding deals. That trait we got from our mother.

I'll never forget when we were little. Joel & I played together alot. One time we were fighting & I threw my shoe at him. Unfortunately he ducked and my shoe went through the window. I've always maintained that it was his fault the window broke--he's the one that ducked! I got in trouble & had to pay $6 to fix the window.

I remember Joel & I couldn't wait until sledding season in Michigan! We'd spend 2 days just getting the sled runners sanded & waxed--ready for the 1st snow. Mom didn't even have to ask us to. Then when the snow hit & Haskell Avenue closed, we'd sled down the street to our heart's content. That was fun.

The last childhood memory that stands out is that we built a clubhouse in the roof of our garage. We played cards and games together quite a bit. The main reason we liked it was because our little brother, Scott, couldn't get in.

I do wish we could have lived closer and could have talked more. I love your wife too. I was always so happy for you that you had Linda--who loves you so much, took care of you, and knew how to handle you. And I know you loved her too.

I love you Joel and I'm going to miss you terribly. I'm having trouble believing that you're gone but I'm so glad I got to be your big sister.

Always, Jil.
