Through the years, Josh loved to play hockey, work on his cars, and he always dressed in style. He loved being around family, loved to camp, travel and spend time at the lake. He enjoyed hunting and fishing with his brother. He had a green thumb and loved to garden. He was the most loving friend, son, brother, grandson, nephew, husband, and father to our sweet Benny. “ Josh, I have so many great memories with you, Chels and most recently little Benny. Going all the way back to high school when I first found out you and Chels were “official” to this past summer, all of us together at our house. I can remember when you and Chels were sometimes late because you were in the bathroom fixing every piece of hair into perfect spikes lol or you always being the last one to finish your meals whenever we went out. “Take control Josh!!” Remember that one? Lol pretty sure you hated me for a second after Chels’s 21st bday haha More recently all of garage parties with the squad and new little ones. Our talks of homesteading. There are tons more but those are the ones that come to mind as I write this. I am heartbroken and will miss you dearly. See you again my friend

“ Josh was one of my closest friends and we had a ton of good times over the years. We talked a lot about life, family, and business. He loved his family and was a very intelligent man and a great friend. I’m gonna miss you so much bro! Love you❤️

“ Josh was my best friend, my brother we shared so much with each other so many good and bad times. My heart is broken I cannot believe this has happened. We just talked about hunting this fall. Josh wanted to be in this full Ghillie suit. Josh was so smart he could tell you about anything and always loved to talk and laugh. Josh held a lot to himself, and you had to pry his true feelings out, but he and I knew each other very well we knew when something wasn't right, and we always tried to help each other to deal with our problems. I'm going to miss you bruh. You will always be my little brother. Rest in heavenly peace. I love you Fam!
