

Louise Elizabeth Paré

November 26, 1952 - February 19, 2026

Louise Paré went to be with the Lord on February 19th, 2026 at StoryPoint Saline under the care of Corsocare Hospice.

Louise was born on November 26, 1952 to Alfred and Margaret (Hendron) Paré in Highland Park, Michigan. One of six siblings, she attended schools in Detroit and Redford. She came to the University of Michigan where she studied liberal arts. During her time at UofM she became part of the Word of God, a charismatic Christian community. This built on her foundation of an intentional life for Jesus. She built on it further by becoming a Consecrated Virgin for the Diocese of Lansing in 1992, an identity she carried for the rest of her life.

Fulfilling her vocation she worked for many years at Servant Publications, supporting its authors and evangelistic efforts. She led a number of retreats at the diocesan retreat centers in DeWitt and the Irish Hills. She was a Spiritual Director, and many benefitted from her wisdom and spiritual gifts.

She had a full life with wide-ranging interests. Among these were travelling [winter excursions to Siesta Key in Florida were a must]; and trips to England, France, and Italy. She was an ardent fan of the Michigan Wolverines as well as the Detroit Tigers. She used to watch Tigers games with her father anywhere they could find a big screen. She actively supported local artists and anyone selling Christmas decorations. Her annual tree trimming party was always packed.

She was predeceased by her parents and brother-in-law Jim Malley and nephew Michael Malley. She is survived by her siblings Mary Alice Power (David); Suzanne Killeen (Kevin); Patricia Johnson (Mike); Mike (Ellen) Paré; Stephen Paré, and her nieces and nephews: Julie Knotek, Dan Power, Sean Killeen, Kate Goble, Chloe Harvel, and Grace Wilson. She so enjoyed her nieces and nephews and their children.

“ I am one of Louise’s nephews and I just wanted to share some of my memories. My aunt was always a kind and welcoming anchor of a person in our family. I have very warm memories of my aunt hosting me and others over the years. Faint memories of running around and trying to keep up with my big cousins Mike and Sean and to a lesser degree my cousin Katie and sister Julie. Aunt Louise was always a nice person to come back to, setting up a leisurely game of croquet in the yard or making her comfort foods I think we affectionately called corn blowup or green surprise, cracking jokes with the family and keeping things lighthearted. Aunt Louise also wore the cool Aunt label with pride. Sorry to report to my uncles Steve and Mike but of all the sports buffs in the family, she was the one to take me to my first college football game when U of M handily beat Northwestern in the championship Fall of 1997. She also took me to see the first Lord of the Rings movie when I was in high school. Also very cool.

Over the years, she would always have time to see me and my cousins and let us know she cared about us. She knew when to check in and show her care just at the right times in life. When I lost someone close to me at age 18, she brought over a special batch of that famous corn blowup to let me know that she was thinking about me. When I was in grad school, she took me out to lunch and reminded me to go easy on myself. She was always there for all of us. When my wife Tori and later my boys Hugo and Ziggy came into our lives, Aunt Louise was always a sweet and pleasant presence in our times together. Last summer, I was able to take the boys for a brief visit at her assisted living home, and she showed them the birds and the fish that inhabited the commons. It’s people like Aunt Louise that will teach all of us who live on with her memory to be kind and caring. We’ll all miss her.

“ My mother (Sarah Gill) and I met Louise at Storypoint and enjoyed our visits, and our lunches together at the Storypoint dining room. She would smile when I greeted her as “Sister.” Everyone complimented and admired her eyeglasses, as we all wanted a pair like them.. So kind and soft spoken, she will be missed at Storypoint. Our condolences to her family. ☐
