“ I will always remember as a child how Grandpa always made me feel extra special with his twinkly smile and a kind word. He loved to have me sit on his knee and talk to him. He would bring fresh donuts in the morning when we would stay with him and he'd always say "it's a beautiful thing" when referring to something good coming together ❤️.

One specific memory I have of him, is one summer when our family was visiting - I was about 11 years old. I stayed the night with Erica and we pierced our own ears together. My Mom & Dad weren't too happy with me and when I got back to the farm I saw Grandpa first. He knew I was in trouble but he was smiling and reassuring me. I eventually said "Welp. Time to go face the music" and he laughed so hard. I felt so good I could make him laugh. Now, looking back as an adult, I can also chuckle at this memory we shared.

This hymn comes to mind today. It comforts me to know I will see him again someday, in the sweet by & by.

*"There's a land that is fairer than day
And by faith we can see it afar
For the Father waits over the way
To prepare us a dwelling place there*

*In the sweet by and by
We shall meet on that beautiful shore
In the sweet by and by
We shall meet on that beautiful shore*

*We shall sing on that beautiful shore
The melodious songs of the blessed
And our spirit shall sorrow no more
Not a sign for the blessing of rest*

*In the sweet by and by
We shall meet on that beautiful shore*

*In the sweet by and by
We shall meet on that beautiful shore"*

“ My grandfather and my namesake, Norwin Leon was beloved by many. I like so many others here will miss him. I remember our family vacations to Michigan spending hours hanging out (possibly bothering) my father and Grandpa while they were working on cars with Uncle Ray. Getting dirty in the pit while we changed oil or holding the flashlight or lamp (poorly) for them to work in the dark. I remember pool nights upstairs and euchre tournaments where grandpa and Ray would inevitably call trump 3 suited with 9s and still win the point. I remember always bumming a piece of his dentures gum because I liked the flavor, and he would always give me a piece. Or Canada Dry ginger ale always stocked in the garage fridge. Huge family reunions where it isn't an exaggeration to say there were 50+ people at the farm, hayrides, and shooting guns. You would be right to think that not all of these things are about Grandpa, but they are all BECAUSE of Grandpa. Nothing I mentioned above would have happened if not for this incredible man and the family that he begat. Thanks for everything Grandpa, I love you and I'll see you again in heaven when we all get together.

“ It has been said of my dad, Norwin Wiedmann, that he loved to build and work with tools. He was always making or fixing something. As I thought about the tools he would use, one came to mind that has two sides. It is a tool that everyone uses while doing almost any job. It can be used to put together, to fix and take apart. This tool has a hard end with which to get the job done, and a controlling end to gently guide it for a complete finish. My father, was just like this tool... A Hammer... He used the hard end to teach us how to work and finish a job. He used the controlling end to show us how we can handle the life God has given us with joy. I will miss you Dad... your joyful spirit... your guidance... and your love.

“ I have so many wonderful memories of my Dad. When I was about fourteen years old, sitting in Forest Ave. Baptist Church, in the morning service, when my Dad went forward with my oldest brother Normie during the invitation at the end of the sermon. Since that moment, I watched my Dad follow Jesus. I know my Dad and brother are in Heaven together now since they made that decision to follow Jesus on that day. But, another memory also sticks out in my head during Christmas of 1974. We were all getting ready for Christmas, and Dad drove us to K -Marts to get a few more gifts and the food we needed for our Christmas recipes. I'm not sure if it was Christmas Eve or the day before, and it had started snowing. I remember Dad driving there without much problem, but when we came out of K-Marts around early evening, the snow was piling up. By the time we reached Ellsworth Rd. there must have been a couple of feet of snow on the road. The snow was drifting, and at times the snow was deeper in other areas of the road. Dad was driving the car, and it seemed like we were riding a sled. Dad had to keep the driving momentum up, or we would get stuck. He drove us as far as possible, and we ended up stuck about a quarter mile from the farm house. We all had to grab a bag of groceries and hike the rest of the way home. We laughed and had the best time, and it was the top focus of conversation spoken on Christmas Eve. Thank you Dad for all those wonderful memories, and we will make more beautiful memories again, when we all get to Heaven. I like the poem "The Broken Chain" We little knew that morning that God was going to call your name. In life we loved you dearly, in death we do the same. It broke our hearts to loose you, you did not go alone; for part of us went with you, the day God called you Home. You left us peaceful memories, Your love is still our guide; and though we cannot see you, You are always at our side. Our family chain is broken, and nothing seems the same; but as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again. (By Ron Tranmer)

“ The mark of a man can be told by how he respects the Word of God. Each morning, for the last several years, Grandma read scriptures aloud to him and they prayed together at the big old oak table in the farmhouse kitchen. Then lots of coffee!

Another mark of a man can be told by how his grown children respect and love him. His children have served and cared for him tirelessly for the past 6 years, after his health began to decline. When his life became a cycle of homebound care, I struggled to know what to bring for a token of cheer. I began to cut their garden and field flowers or bring my own for a little bouquet. It was basically to cheer Grandma. I didn't think he really noticed. One day as Ken and I were leaving he said "don't leave, the flowers will all wilt!". From then on, whether I brought flowers or not, when we got ready to leave, he would almost always say that to me. A sweet memory. I have heard so many horror stories of "interfering" in-laws. I have been blessed to have "attending" in-laws. We have so many pictures of the many events they attended for all our children. Can you imagine keeping that up for 24 grandchildren?? A basketball game 30 minutes away-no problem, we'll just climb to the top of the bleachers so Grandma will have a wall for her back. :)

We enjoyed their visits to our many Navy posts across the country and even in Spain. On one visit, Grandma was trying to diet a bit. She declined our offer of bacon. She then proceeded to steal half of Grandpa's bacon off his plate. This process repeated itself daily. We got a big chuckle watching that play out.:)

The mercy of God was abundantly clear to me yesterday while spending the day at his home, without him there. There was of course a big hole and loss, but you could still feel peace while making arrangements. The funeral will not just be a tearful mourning, but a rejoicing of him gone on to Glory to meet his Savior.

“ From the day I met Norwin on Thanksgiving day 1979, the day I asked for his daughter Darlenes' hand in marriage in 1982, unto the present, no one could've asked for a better father-in-law! He always treated me with love and respect, as if I was one of his own sons. What more could any man ask of his father, (and mother, Eleanor!), in- laws! Keith Worrell
