“Condolences to the Rosiek family in this time of loss. Sue was a firm boss, but deep down she cared about and stuck up for the editorial department. Sorry I could not make the celebration of life but I am thinking about her today. God bless Steve, the family and all who loved her.

“Steve and Ian, I am very sorry for your loss as we enter the New Year! The Christmas holiday must have been pretty tough! I'm sorry. I worked at the Plymouth-Canton Observer office for five years. If there were any issues or problems, Susan was on the ball, handling it right away. I always appreciated her readiness to jump right in.

“My condolences to Steve and the family as they say goodbye to Sue. She was a beloved and respected colleague for many years and, more importantly, she was a dear friend. Sue was loyal, loving and a fierce advocate for the truth. She was a joy and brought light and love to so many around her. I will miss her dearly. Godspeed, Sue.

“ When a community editor at the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers was furious with me over a story I wrote (and got into the Canton Observer) he complained to Rosiek, who came to the Plymouth office for a sit down. I worried that Rosiek would take his side and double team me. But she was even handed and treated us as equals. I certainly had complaints about Rosiek during the three subsequent years I worked directly for her. But in that instance she was a great mediator.

Isn't it amazing and wonderful that someone so gifted had the ability to treat all with such caring and compassion. Sue's ability to lead with true kindness and understanding made her a unique individual.
