“ Tom and I were colleagues at the Henry Ford Medical Center in Grosse Pointe back in the 1990s, where we shared our interest in child-adolescent mental health. I enjoyed his easy personality and wit. I will always remember his "zebra mussel" analogy of difficulties with the through-put of cases in the mental health system.

“ I first met Tom McCormick during his sophomore year at NMU when he started dating my good friend Patty. I have such fond memories of Tom and Patty during our college years and the times that I visited them in later years - in Lansing, Marquette, San Antonio, and Gross Pointe. Tom was a genuinely nice person, good humored, extremely intelligent and fun to talk with. I am so sorry that he and Patty had to cope with his devastating illness, but am also inspired by how they faced it together with love, courage, and grace.
